

ABSTRACT

A method of using a printing device having a toner fuser to laminate a media sheet with at least one laminate material sheet, the method including receiving a laminate request, adjusting a characteristic of the toner fuser of the 5 printing device, and passing the media sheet and the at least one laminate material sheet through the toner fuser to effect lamination within the printing device.